

ABSTRACT

A cathode ray tube with a reduced beam spot size on a fluorescent screen is obtained by forming electron beam passing holes on the electrodes composing a triode portion of an electron gun to have horizontally and vertically asymmetric shapes.